

Greetings

Therefore to him that knows to do good, and does it not, to him it is sin.

James 4:17

God has given each individual fifty two weeks in each year to conduct his affairs. What if, five of the fifty two Sundays were selected to seek the lost, call fallen members of the church, dedicated to the up building of the families and local church in general; and every member were asked to help in these five Sundays? Five out of fifty two Sundays every member of the local church was expected to assemble and invite someone to come with them that would leave each member forty seven Sundays to take holidays and visit family. Is it good for members to be dedicated to the Lord Jesus Christ? Is it good for members of the Lord's church to be devoted to the local congregation for its edifications and up building? The Lord expects as much love from those for whom He died as He has given them. Is it to much to expect disciples of the Lord Jesus Christ to make some personal sacrifices for His name sake? What would you do on those five Sundays where you were called upon to sacrifice if the Lord Himself asked you?
